Outbreak stops speech

Violence hits Klan rally in state capital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A camera, eggs and threatening curses sailed past the head of Ku Klux Klan Imperial Wizard Dale R. Reusch as he tried—and failed—to preach white supremacy Monday on the Statehouse steps.

The 38-year-old Reusch says he will be back with the same antibusing message in September. If not allowed to speak, he claims he will be ready to "meet violence with violence."

Reusch, of Lodi, Ohio, was flanked at the start of Monday's rally by about 20 supporters, including several burly men carrying American flags on wooden staffs.

"You talk sick," one man told Reusch as he started his speech.

"We will go on with the rally regardless of the agitation," replied Reusch.

A can of chemical skin irritant for self defense in one hand and microphone in the other, Reusch resumed his speech to the midday crowd of about 300 protesters, but to no avail.

The rally—and Reusch—were in trouble.

About 100 angry, young demonstrators moved up the steps in front of the imperial wizard. They drowned out his words and pressed forward, eventually swinging flagstaves, signs and fists at the Klan leader and his supporters.

Two persons were slightly injured—Reusch and a television cameraman—and three persons were arrested.

Reusch said he would seek a state permit to hold a rally at the capitol in September, after he seeks advice from the American Civil Liberties Union on how to insure free speech at the rally.

At first, the two sides merely traded shouts, protesters calling Klansmen "racists" and Klansmen calling protesters "communists."

But protesters began reaching for Reusch and asking him to fight. As protesters leaped at Reusch, knocking him to the ground, others were slugging at Klansmen, who wielded flagstaves like baseball bats and took advantage of their higher ground atop the steps.

Klansmen hacked at protesters while Reusch tried to keep his ground. "It was my duty to stand at my post," he said later.

Protesters, some of whom claimed they had been sprayed with skin irritant by Reusch, smashed the public address system and peppered Reusch and supporters with eggs, chanting "Ku Klux Klan, scum of the land."

Reusch, treated at the scene for facial lacerations, was stripped of his hooded purple Klan robe and spat upon by the demonstrators.

Television cameraman Jerry Coleman, 30, of WBNS-TV in Columbus, was hurled down the Statehouse stairs. He was treated and released at a Columbus hospital.

A man, a woman and a male juvenile were arrested when about 25 highway patrolmen ended the melee.

George F. Preston, 29, Cincinnati, was charged with inciting to violence, a third-degree felony. Preston allegedly struck Reusch with a sign or stick, police said. Brenda L. Hutchinson, 18, of Columbus, was charged with disturbing a lawful meeting.

BOMBS BURSTING IN AIR — Multi-colored explosions lit up the night sky over a portion of Washington C.H. area Monday as part of the Fourth of July grand finale at the Fayette County Fairgrounds. The Washington C.H.

Jaycees, who annually sponsor the Fourth of July activities, set off approximately $1,000 worth of fireworks. The display, which lasted for over 15 minutes, was reportedly viewed by approximately 10,000 residents.

IT'S GETTING close to festival time in neighboring Greenfield.

An old-time fiddler's contest, a tobacco spitting contest, an old-fashioned costume competition and street square dancing are among the highlights of the Greene Countrie Towne Festival to be held July 15-17 in Greenfield.

Fiddlers from throughout the Midwest are expected to compete for cash prizes in the contest which was recently added to the weekend program of events.

The three-day festival will include a number of other attractions, including arts and crafts demonstrations and displays, a flea market, free street entertainment, an antique car show, a custom van and hot rod show, soap box derby and amusement rides.

Other events include a bike tour of the area, a Sunday afternoon parade, a grinning contest, a band concert, and a "Bong Show," patterned after the popular Gong Show on television.

New Miss Firecracker crowned

Area marks nation's 201st birthday

DAWN BENNINGTON

It was a classic Fourth of July in Washington C.H. with temperatures in the 90s, fireworks, a parade, horseshoe pitching.

The Washington C.H. Jaycee chapter began its annual celebration of America's 201st birthday with a parade at 11 a.m. Monday. The festivities lasted until midnight.

Additional photographs of the Fourth of July festivities at the Fayette County Fairgrounds can be found on page 11 of today's edition.

The 18-unit parade under the guidance of grand marshal Kenneth Craig stepped off from the intersection of Willard Street and Columbus Avenue, proceeded through the downtown business district, and disbanded at the Fayette County Fairgrounds where the rest of the day's activities were held.

Miss Dawn Bennington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bennington, Jr., of 29 Cross St. in Bloomingburg, was crowned as the 1977 "Little Miss Firecracker" and received the honor of reigning over the afternoon and evening activities at the fairgrounds.

She was selected by a panel of judges over 10 other finalists in the competition which is open to Fayette County girls, ages 6-7. She was crowned by last year's Little Miss Firecracker, Mary Chrisman, daughter of Mrs. Beverly Chrisman and Jim Chrisman.

The first runnerup in the Little Miss Firecracker competition was Miss Mindy Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Wilson of Jeffersonville. Miss Stacy Gustin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gustin, 1508 Anderson Road, was the second runnerup.

The other eight finalists were Amy Park, Angel Blevins, Angie Huffman, Christina Puckett, Carmia Dunn, Shannon Blevins, Cathy Bell and Evaelyn Redden.

The horseshoe pitching competition began shortly after 12 noon and lasted six and a half hours before Kenny Daves of Good Hope emerged as the winner. He went through the competition without losing a game and won the first place trophy.

Lester Stevenson finished second. Junior Russell was third and John Jackson was fourth in the competition.

While the older Fourth of July celebrants were pitching horseshoes, playing bingo, or spending a leisurely afternoon under the shade of a fairground's tree, the Jaycees were providing fun and games and other activities for the children.

There were frog jumping contests, a ping pong tournament, and races as well as other race track games associated with a warm summer's day.

Later in the evening, the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club's Community Band performed before a crowd of approximately 500 people in the fairground's grandstand. While the band played popular marches and tunes, a rock music band, Sass from Cincinnati, was providing music for the younger set during the annual teen dance at the Mahan Building.

Shortly before 10 p.m., the Jaycees lit up the southeastern sky of Washington C.H. with a $1,000 fireworks display. The Jaycees estimated that 10,000 area residents viewed the multi-color spectacle.

July 4th mostly quiet holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

July 4, 1977: Bicentennial plus one. For most Americans, this Fourth of July was a return to low-key normality.

In most places the spirit was light-hearted. Billy Carter, the President's brother, appeared at a World Champion PoleClimbing Contest and played softball in Lexington, Tenn. There were fireworks and rallies, picnics and concerts, regattas and parades throughout the land. And few dissenters anywhere.

Racial turmoil, Vietnam, Watergate seemed echoes of the past. And most people weren't listening.

Instead, Air Force demonstration jets screamed over the Statue of Liberty and tiny racing sailboats slapped the waters of New York Harbor. Under sunny skies in Tuscaloosa, Ala., there were arts and crafts, games for all ages, softball, rock music and bluegrass.

Night skies exploded with fireworks over the Hudson River in New York, the Charles River in Boston, the Mall in Washington, D.C. — and over Muscle Shoals, Ala., and countless small towns.

Actor John Cullum did the traditional reading of the Declaration of Independence at Federal Hall on Wall Street in New York. Four or five thousand people stood — intent, respectful.

In Washington, health consultant Larry Peaco relaxed against a tree in West Potomac Park and said he felt a "collective relief. All the bad stuff is over... Maybe the last of the Watergate ghosts have been exorcised."

The day was not entirely harmonious, but the discord was scattered.

At John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York, a gunman seized a bus and held its passengers hostage for nine hours before being captured. Two people were killed.

In Skokie, Ill., anti-Nazi demonstrators rallied against the threat that courts will allow an American Nazi group to march through the town, where 7,000 survivors of Nazi concentration camps live.

In Columbus, Ohio, state highway patrolmen quickly broke up a fracas between rallying Ku Klux Klansmen and counter-protestors who used clubs and fists to try to prevent the rally.

In Oakland, Calif., where Black Panther leader Huey Newton was in jail pending efforts to release him on bail while he awaits trial, a march and rally for "jobs and justice" was scheduled — but its political tone made it unusual for this year.

In nearby Berkeley, a Fantasy Costume Parade was staged, and across the bay in San Francisco, the main event was a fireworks display at Candlestick Park baseball stadium, preceded by music by the Golden Gate Park Band and a daytime Giants' baseball game.

In Washington, the National Archives sealed a time capsule filled with memorabilia from the Bicentennial to be uncapped in 2076.

In Boston, the fireworks display included a huge aerial bomb, designed to create a quarter-mile wide red, white and green chrysanthemum across the sky.

HANDY WORK — An entry in Monday's wheelbarrow race competition at the Fayette County Fairgrounds looks for the finish line. Although it is not known how the team finished in the race, it is a safe bet by viewing telltale smiles that both youngsters enjoyed themselves. The wheelbarrow races were just one of many games and contests held at the Fayette County Fairgrounds Monday as part of the Washington C.H. Jaycees Fourth of July celebration. The activities began at 11 a.m. with a parade through the downtown Washington C.H. area and ended with a fireworks display later that evening. It was a way to say "Happy 201st" to America.

Civil servants drawing pensions, big salaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal civil servant retired on grounds that he was disabled, yet earned a total of $117,560 in a new job in 1974 and 1975, an internal Civil Service Commission report shows.

Another disability pensioner held a job that paid him a total of $100,943 in the same two years.

Yet another supposedly disabled federal pensioner earned $76,793 in a single year, and still another earned $66,444 in one year.

At the same time, the four were drawing disability pensions ranging from $404 to $1,793 per month, paid mostly by the taxpayers.

The pensioners, whose names were not listed, are among the commission's "Top 20" — persons who earned the most in new jobs while drawing pension checks granted because they could not perform their old government jobs efficiently.

These 20 get the most from the system that grants disability pensions to federal workers who in many cases still are able to work.

On the average, the 20 earned more than $29,000 a year in 1974 and 1975, while drawing disability pensions of $9,284 per year. And most of the pension was considered tax-free "sick pay."

The 20 are a small minority among the more than 279,000 disability pensioners drawing more than $1.5 billion a year. Yet they illustrate dramatically features of the system that have drawn criticism.

Under the system:

—The definition of disability is so broad and vague that virtually any ailment, including those that are relatively easy to fake, is grounds for a pension. Nearly 98 per cent of those who apply for a disability retirement get one.

—Monitoring whether disabled pensioners have recovered their earning power depends almost entirely on unverified earnings reports by the pensioners themselves. Officials admit that fraud usually goes undetected, and when it is discovered, the pensioner virtually never is prosecuted.

—Government agencies, according to the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, often are unwilling to find light-duty assignments for employes with medical problems, instead pushing them onto the retirement rolls.

The system also is relatively stingy when it comes to those who need help the most: young, low-paid federal workers who become totally unable to work. Many of these workers would receive more money if they were covered by Social Security rather than Civil Service, a report by the General Accounting Office said.

To receive a disability pension a federal civil servant need only be declared medically unable to perform one or more parts of his job efficiently.

In contrast, the Social Security disability system and most disability programs in private industry pay only when a person is unable to work.

Manhunt continues for slaying suspects

PURCELL, Okla. (AP) — Fingerprints of two Oklahoma prison escapees were found in a car belonging to one of two fishermen missing for a week, linking the convicts to a series of killings and abductions in three states.

The link was based on fingerprints found Monday in a car that belonged to one of two Louisiana fishermen who have not been seen since June 28, five days after the convicts escaped from the maximum security prison at McAlester.

The convicts were identified as Earl Van Denton, 27, and Paul Ruiz, 29. Charges of flight to avoid prosecution were filed Monday in Hugo, Okla., against Denton, who was serving a life term for murder, and against Ruiz, who was serving life for armed robbery.

The last reported sighting of the two suspects in the crime spree was Saturday night in nearby Wayne, Okla., the FBI reported. Two men were reportedly seen driving the maroon taxi they stole here Friday from cab driver James M. Short, 40.

Short has not been seen since and McClain County Sheriff Don Smith said he feared the cab driver may have been killed.

Authorities say the two may also be responsible for two known killings and the wounding of another man.

Authorities believe the sequence of events to be as follows:

On June 28, five days after Denton and Ruiz escaped, Ray Jones Sr., 65, of Franklinton, La., and a fishing companion, Art Wilson, 66, also of Franklinton, disappeared.

The next day Wilson's car was found 500 miles away in Magazine, Ark. Magazine town Marshal Marvin E. Ritchie, 42, was found shot to death in the trunk of his patrol car.

Dave Small, a ranger with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, was found beside Ritchie's body. Small had been shot in the shoulder and apparently left for dead. One of his fellow rangers, Opal James, 58, was abducted.

James' body was found Friday, about 40 miles north of Magazine.

Short disappeared from Purcell, 300 miles west of Magazine, the same day.

Army takes over reins in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The army took over the Pakistani government today after four months of political unrest and the threat of new violence between supporters and foes of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

Radio Pakistan announced the coup and said the 49-year-old prime minister and other political leaders had been placed in "temporary protective custody."

The broadcast said those arrested were from both Bhutto's Pakistan People's party and the opposition Pakistan National Alliance. But only Bhutto was identified.

"Peace and tranquility prevail everywhere," the broadcast said. It added that the army was guarding all vital installations.

Unofficial reports said the army began making arrests about 2 a.m. Radio Pakistan said the takeover was accomplished by about 7:30 a.m.

The government radio said the army chief of staff, Gen. Muhammad Ziaul Haq would address the nation in a special broadcast tonight. Meanwhile, there was no announcement of a ruling junta or a military prime minister.

It was believed that the army's leaders would be reluctant to retain control for a prolonged period because

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in a hesitant post-holiday showing today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped more than a point in early trading.

But gainers held a slight over-all edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers noted an absence of any particularly striking economic news over the July 4 weekend.

They pointed out that the market was continuing its recent pattern of weakness in big-name issues and relative strength in the smaller "secondary" stocks.

Today's early prices included Procter & Gamble, down 1/4 at 79 3/4; General Motors, ahead 3/4 at 69 1/4, and Sony, off 1/4 at 9.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 3.65 to 912.65, extending its loss for the week to 17.05 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a very slight margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume dropped off to a four-week low of 18.62 million shares, against 19.41 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index gave up 18 to 54.92.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .26 at 120.58.

Summit conference doubts

The abstract idea of the summit conference is beguiling. This approach to solving international problems has about it a seductive aura of getting down to brass tacks - of cutting away the diplomatic underbrush and letting the tallest trees in the forest stand face to face.

It is put forward as very important that heads of state become well acquainted. The presumption is that in such cases familiarity breeds, not contempt, but rapport - or at very least a guarded mutual respect. There is something in this. Personal contacts may lead to better understanding.

There are, however, some potential dangers in personal diplomacy at the top level. These must be taken into account.

Heads of state, almost as a condition of having reached this pinnacle, tend to think of themselves as supremely competent to discuss all matters with authority and aplomb. Thus one of the pitfalls is the temptation to engage in face-to-face talks without sufficient advance preparation at lower levels. In the end this may lead to disappointing unrealistic public expectations as to what may be accomplished.

These ruminations are prompted by President Carter's statement that he "would welcome a chance this year to meet with" Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, and that he wants to get to know him better. Such a meeting would be desirable, we think - but, for a couple of reasons, only if preceded by unusually thorough staff work.

Relations with the Soviet Union have reached a very tricky stage, complicated by several factors. Notable among them are the dispute over human rights and the questions of strategic arms limitation.

Then, too, there have been apparently reliable reports that because of ill health and his age Brezhnev seemed unable to engage in a genuine exchange of views with French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing when the two met in Paris. The Washington Post quotes a "well informed source" in Paris as saying the Soviet leader "was not in any condition to negotiate here".

This leads to misgivings about his ability to negotiate seriously in personal talks with President Carter. Such misgivings argue the more strongly for avoidance of a meeting unless it is preceded by clear understanding as to subject matter and areas of agreement. Considering Brezhnev's alleged condition and the volatile nature of U.S.-Soviet relations at present, an open-ended summit conference seems unwise.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

We could have plenty of gas

Congressmen, when this column appears, will be home, putting their ears to the ground to catch what their constituents are saying about various things including the high cost of energy. While the public may be confused about the issue of deregulation of oil and gas prices, there is plenty of evidence that the Carter program for taxing production at the wellhead and returning the money to people in the form of a rebate must end up as a rip-off by the bureaucrats who administer the transfer.

Whenever the politicians have money to play with, much of it goes into sterile paper-shuffling, uneconomic diversions to individuals who stand to gain at the expense of the majority, and additions to the cost of doing business that must be reflected willy-nilly in higher prices.

Since anybody should be able to understand that transfer payments do not add to the sum total of purchasing power that should be going into new capital outlays as well as into consumer buying, the probability is that the vacationing Congressmen will be hearing things that could send them back to Washington in a somewhat chastened mood. As the Wall Street Journal has put it in an astute editorial, Congress will probably save Jimmy Carter by forcing him to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory on this idea of using every crisis as an excuse to export more tax money from an already overburdened economic system.

It is becoming all too scandalously apparent that the White House is less interested in increasing energy production than it is in finding new ways of financing its own unconscionable deficits. The income tax won't serve any more, the Social Security check-off of individuals and corporations can't keep pace with the outflow of old age security payments - so what is the Administration to do? It can't as yet, see the common sense of deregulating to the point where new discoveries of oil and gas would become profitable. It can't see that the only way to lower prices is to expand production.

Eugene Luntz, the president of Brooklyn Union Gas, thinks that his company, in cooperation with other gas utilities, has found a way of using the fuel cell to convert gas into an incredibly cheap form of electrical current. Tests conducted in Brooklyn and on Staten Island show that fuel cell conversion of gas can heat and cool buildings with 17 per cent less energy than is now required. The method is pollution-free, it functions by stimulating a chemical reaction between electrodes without burning anything, and it is absolutely safe.

But if the fuel cell is to play its part in reducing the cost of gas to the community, a continuing supply of methane must be insured. Luntz makes the point that we already have an incomparable system of pipelines that cross the country from the gas-producing areas of the Southwest to the heavily populated Northeast.

The measure to deregulate new natural gas that has been offered to Congress by Rep. Robert Krueger of Texas would assuredly encourage a spate of new drilling in already proven fields. But, beyond this, there are other ways of increasing the methane supply. Methane is the inevitable product of decomposing waste. Jude Wanniski, reporting for the Wall Street Journal, says that U.S. producers, if encouraged by free pricing, could provide enough methane to take care of U.S. needs for a thousand years.

Our investment in pipeline facilities could have a two-way payoff if and when offshore drilling in the New England coastal areas brings in new gas wells. A New England has supply would, of course, do wonders to revive the industrial Northwest. But any excess of offshore Atlantic gas could be pumped to the Middle West and even back to the Southwest simply by reversing the flow in the pipelines we already have.

All that we need is freedom for producers to go to work. We don't need a new Department of Energy to serve as a no-growth barrier to future plenty.

Former slave becomes 135

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Charlie Smith, a former slave who once told an interviewer that "I'm a United States man," celebrated his 135th birthday as the nation marked its 201st.

Smith, the oldest person on Social Security rolls and the oldest known resident of the nation, was host at a party in his honor Monday at the Bartow Convalescent Center here.

"He had quite a celebration," a nurse said later. "He was on the news tonight at 6 o'clock. And his son, Chester, was here; the one who couldn't make it on Father's Day." Chester is 70.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Family says fiance beneath her station

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow contemplating marriage to a widower. He is affectionate, trustworthy, and thoughtful. He loves my children and they love him. He is a wonderful father to his own children. He cooks, cleans, washes, irons and never complains. We couldn't help but have smooth sailing, and I do love him, but my problem is the strong objections my family has to this man.

They don't like him because our backgrounds are so different. My parents are culture-conscious and somewhat snobbish. My friend is the eldest of 15 children of a struggling immigrant family. His English is not very good because he hasn't had enough educational advantages as I've had.

If left alone, I'm sure we could overcome these differences, but I am very close to my family, and they could make life unbearable for me if I were to marry this man. I've told him yes, but wonder if perhaps I should reverse my decision. Do you consider my parents' objection too great a stumbling block?

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: Yes, because apparently you do. When you are able to say, "I intend to live my own life with a man of my choice, and if my parents don't like it, they can lump it," I'll reverse my answer.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what I am writing to you for. My problem is money, and you can't help me unless you get big-hearted and send me a check for $50,000. I own my own business and make good money, but my wife spends it faster than I can make it. To make matters worse, I have four daughters who are exactly like their mother. I am drowning in bills every month, and there doesn't seem to be any end to it. Will you please tell my wife and daughters to quit being extravagant?

OWES PLENTY
DEAR OWES: No, that's YOUR JOB. It's bad enough to have spoiled your wife, but you are guilty of perpetuating the crime by raising four more females in her image. Turn off those charge accounts, Dad, and put your wife on an allowance.

DEAR ABBY: A girl I work with is getting married soon, and she wants to borrow my wedding gown and veil. She's not even a close friend, but she's seen pictures of my wedding and says that's exactly the kind of gown and veil she's always wanted. Unfortunately, we're the same size, too.

Abby, I'm saving my wedding gown for my two younger sisters to wear - and someday I will have daughters who will want to wear it. So many of my friends have told me they let someone wear their wedding gowns and they were returned in terrible condition I hate to take the chance.

What story can I tell this girl so I won't have to let her wear it? I hate to have her mad at me, as we work together every day.

DEAR TEN: Why make up a story? tell her the truth.

CONFIDENTIAL TO R. IN ST. PAUL: You must be kidding! It is highly improper for Sue and her boyfriend and her boyfriend's mother to sleep in the same bed. I don't care WHO sleeps in the middle!

Ohio Perspective

Ohio solons busy with commendations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Somewhere between floor debates, committee meetings and routine making of laws, Ohio's 132 legislators are devoting more and more time to congratulating people.

They congratulate them for winning elections, retiring from office and in one case, for graduating from kindergarten. Couples are congratulated when they celebrate anniversaries. Umpires are congratulated for their devoted service to the Little League. Little Leaguers are congratulated when they win a game.

In some legislative districts, in time, just about everyone seems to get congratulated by the legislature for something.

During the last two-year-sessions of the general assembly, ending last December, lawmakers had some 25,000 commendations, letters and resolutions drawn up by the Legislative Reference Bureau. The bulk of them congratulated somebody.

Considering the historic interest in the legislature's congratulatory document business, the number is likely to be considerably higher during the 112th General Assembly. From 1969 to 1970 the legislature produced about 3,500 special congratulations, thank-yous and condolence letters. The number has been just about doubling every session since then.

A simple commendation-termed as a "map letter" in the House or a "lieutenant governor" letter in the Senate-is the easiest.

It carries, a picture of the Statehouse, flags and a map of Ohio on a four-color document. It can be drawn up on about any subject and carries the name of the sponsor and the speaker of the House.

A special toned-down document with a black border is used for messages of condolence.

The Senate uses a more solemn black on white document for its commendations and condolences.

A recent check showed State Sen. Oakley Collins, R-17 Ironton, had sent out 564 of the special letters carrying his signature and the signature of Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste. Collins seems to hold the record for putting out the most commendations.

In the House, Rep. Terry Tranter, D-24 Cincinnati, had sent out 109 of the documents.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
What kind of day will tomorrow be! To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.
WEDNESDAY, JULY 6

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)
Mostly favorable influences. Do not let pressures or tensions hamper steady, well-tempered action. Especially favored: research, written matters, personal relationships.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)
Above-average opportunities indicated, but you may have to seek out some for yourself. It will be possible now to obtain cooperation you could not get in the past.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)
Make a dry run for future reference in vital areas, but with system and consistency, not sporadically or in haste. Shun needless argument.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)
A potentially fine day. Through sheer force of personality, you can break down opposition and get what you want.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)
Personal relationships under some restrictions. Don't discuss secret plans with anyone, or you'll have reason for regret later.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Good Mercury influences stimulate your skills and capabilities. You should feel enthusiastic about the way things go now.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Skepticism could defeat the fully charged action this day deserves. Believe in yourself and in your goals — and keep forging ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Stellar influences now favor novel pursuits, imaginative revitalizing of all interests. Display your talents in marketable areas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Avoid being led astray by those who are heedless of consequences, careless of responsibilities. You will face more distractions than you think, so keep up your guard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
You rarely imitate, preferring to produce in your own way. However, this day will require more attention to others' methods and know-how.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Express your ideas and opinions discreetly but firmly. Don't leave stones unturned which may have gems beneath. A generally good day — if you cooperate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)
A conservative and prudent attitude will keep you from going overboard through misguided enthusiasm — a tendency now. Be especially cautious in romantic matters.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly conventional and ultra-conservative; also idealistic and humanitarian in your impulses — could not only succeed, but be eminently happy in any career where you could be of service to your fellowmen, such as medicine, institutional or any other kind of welfare work. Teaching is also an excellent field for you but, here, you will have to learn to be more patient with those less gifted than yourself. If so inclined, you could take up writing — with marked success. Traits to curb: jealousy and hypersensitivity.

Gay rights crept in to legality

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — In 1975 the village of Yellow Springs incorporated gay rights into its code in a most unusual manner.

Rather than ban discrimination against homosexuals through a separate law, this southwestern Ohio village simply redefined "sex" to mean not only gender, but sexual orientation and manifestations.

Marj Rowland was a member of the village's human rights commission at the time. She says the law is more comprehensive than most and perhaps the most comprehensive in Ohio.

But Ms. Rowland, who prefers the feminist designation, believes an avowed homosexual would have trouble getting a teaching or counseling job in Yellow Springs. And she is unsure what would happen if an anti-gay rights campaign, such as one that recently was successful Dade County, Fla., were to be brought to Yellow Springs.

Although the amendment passed without many objections, she said, problems have come up since, including a discrimination complaint lodged against the village newspaper, the Yellow Springs News.

The human relations commission, which handles discrimination complaints, agreed with charges made by the Antioch-Yellow Springs Gay Center against the paper, but took no formal action. The paper apologized to the center.

The City of Mansfield was named for Connecticut-born Col. Jared Mansfield, whom President Thomas Jefferson sent to Ohio to correct mistakes in surveys. The colonel was in Ohio only a brief time, leaving after describing the state "a place of wolves and Indians." — AP

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

Only the boldest of performers would try to follow an act like America's bigger-than-life Bicentennial Birthday celebration.

It had audience appeal on an international scale, featured a cast of millions, and played to rave reviews from coast to coast. By any yardstick, it was a success, reflecting many months of preparation and with no expense spared, to give every American a year to remember.

Yet, even as our Bicentennial was significant, particularly from a historical perspective, America at age 201 may be even more so. For we, as a nation, have now made our first advance into a third century with great expectations, and hopefully with a generous helping of that enthusiasm so evident during the pomp and pageantry of 1976.

Certainly our mandate to preserve what our forefathers have bequeathed to us is no less binding. The words of Thomas Paine should serve as a constant reminder of the need for vigilance in support of our hard-won freedoms.

He said, "Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must like men undergo the fatigue of supporting it."

Nobody ever said that it would be easy. Daniel Webster once warned that liberty would only be granted to "those who live it and are always ready to guard and defend it."

And nobody ever said that we could do it alone. These United States were established by men and women with a deep and abiding faith in God — a faith which recognized the role of the Almighty in directing the course of events and in shaping our nation's destiny.

George Washington reflected on that role of his First Inaugural Address. He said, "No people can be bound to acknowledge and adore the Invisible Hand which conducts the affairs of men more than those of the United States. Every step by which they have advanced to the character of an independent nation seems to have been distinguished by some token of providential agency."

President Washington was a perceptive man, and our nation's 201 years of stubborn and successful perseverance must surely impress upon us all the magnitude of his perception.

Our 201st year, like the past several, produced mixed results. Our economic picture has brightened somewhat, and we are making substantial economic moves to reduce the nation's rate of joblessness.

Yet, we have not come to grips with inflation, and prices continue to rise. I am constrained to say that while rhetoric about reduced spending and balancing the federal budget has never been more plentiful in both the White House and in the halls of Congress, actions to back up the rhetoric has been negligible at best.

The painful experience of Vietnam is behind us, and American boys are not on the field of battle anywhere in the world. Still, the world is far from safe for democracy, as Americans once had hoped.

Armed conflict is escalating in Africa, and the Middle East could explode again at any time. The Russians talk of arms reductions but continue to provide war material for nation after nation. Thus, world Communism continues its unbroken pattern of sowing the seeds of war and unrest.

In this hemisphere, we face the continued exportation of Communist subversion from Castro's Cuba and the uncertain future of our control over the Panama Canal, in the face of saber-rattling threats from that nation's Marxist dictator.

As we mark the end of the first year in our third century, we know that the history we write will be no less filled with challenges and threats to our freedoms and our survival as a great nation than that recorded by those generations of Americans who have preceded us.

Our Bicentennial, grand and glorious as it was, is behind us. Let us hope that we retain the enthusiasm, determination, dedication, pride in our past, and faith in our future so openly expressed during that celebration.

If we do, we will be more than equal to the challenges of this century.

Klan exit proves costly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus police led members of the Ku Klux Klan through the Statehouse to their cars parked in the underground state garage following their confrontation with demonstrators Monday.

But to leave the parking facility, the white supremacy advocates had to pay a black attendant as much as $1.50 in parking fees for each of their seven autos.

Attendant Henry Fields, 21, of Columbus, rang up the parking charges for the vehicles as they passed his booth.

In the lead car was Klan Imperial Wizard Dale R. Reusch, who handed Fields two $1 bills and told him to keep the change.

"And tell the governor to dig up those eggs out there," Reusch said, apparently referring to an egg-throwing incident at the rally.

Fields said later that Columbus police asked him to unlock the exit especially for the Klansmen so they could leave without notice.

"It made sense," he said. "But, wow, I was a little nervous."

Pickle Pucker Power

Think at least twice before you use an old family recipe for pickles. It may have given grandma good results, but it may not work well for you. Vinegar is one of the reasons why.

Years ago, vinegar used to be much stronger. It commonly was 7 per cent acetic acid or 70 grain. Today's vinegar is weaker — 4 per cent or 40 grain vinegar is most common. You may find some 5 per cent or 50 grain vinegar, too. The per cent of acid is listed on the label.

Because vinegar used to be so strong, many old recipes called for diluting the vinegar. So, if you follow the recipe and dilute today's weaker vinegar, the pickling solution will be too weak.

The problem may be the amount of vinegar the recipe calls for. Some old recipes used less vinegar because the vinegar was so strong. Using today's weaker vinegars with this recipe may also result in a too weak pickling solution.

Not using enough vinegar or diluting vinegar too much causes problems. The most serious is that the acid level of the pickling solution may not be high enough to produce a safe product. Remember — it is the acid level of pickled products that allows you to process them safely by the hot water bath method. Low acid foods must be processed in a pressure canner for safety's sake.

When pickling, your best bet is to use a modern recipe written for 4 per cent vinegar. If you have some 5 per cent vinegar, modify it — add 1 cup water to 4 cups of the 5 per cent vinegar. Never dilute 4 per cent vinegar!

You may be able to use that old family recipe if the vinegar — water proportions are right. Check the recipe with these recommendations — sour pickles — 1 cup vinegar to 1 cup water to 1/2 cup salt; sweet pickles — 2 cups vinegar to 1 cup water. All other ingredients in the recipe are for seasoning, flavor or crispness! Don't increase the amount of vinegar in the recipe — the pickle may be too sour.

Many old recipes called for lime which was supposed to make pickles crisp. Slaked lime is no longer recommended because of the content of impurities. It is preferred that alum be used at the rate of 2 tablespoons per gallon. Alum can be purchased at most drug stores. Be sure to use accurate measurements because too much alum may cause digestive disturbances. Pickles will be crisp without alum if the cucumbers are processed immediately after harvesting.

The open-kettle method is no longer recommended for pickling. Pickles should be processed in a boiling water bath. Since many of you have favorite recipes without processing times, I felt you would appreciate the following time table:

Immerse filled jars into boiling water one inch or more above top of jars. Boil gently and steadily for time recommended. Start counting processing time as directed in following table.

Two killed in bus hijacking

NEW YORK (AP) — The gunman stood at the front of the bus, aiming a .45-caliber pistol at a college librarian already bleeding from one gunshot wound to the neck.

"This is what's going to happen to you if you don't do what I say," the gunman told 25 passengers as he ordered the driver to turn the Vermont-bound bus toward John F. Kennedy International Airport.

Moments later, after the bus had crashed through an airport fence and the hijacker had killed a woman passenger and the driver and dumped them onto a runway, passenger Bruce Devoer, 17, of East Hartford, Conn., was ordered to drive the bus.

"I decided, as did the other passengers, that it wouldn't pay off to try and rush him," said Devoer of the nine-hour ordeal, in which two were killed, two were wounded and one of the nation's largest airports was turned into an armed camp by a man demanding $6 million and a plane to fly him to Cuba.

Panamanian-born Luis Robinson, 26, a U.S. Navy seaman from Somerset, N.J., surrendered to police and released all his hostages just before midnight.

He was to be arraigned today on charges of murder, kidnapping and illegal possession of a weapon.

Devoer was ordered to drive after Norman Bozick, the 41-year-old driver of the Vermont Transit Co. bus, was fatally wounded. Bozick died later at a hospital.

Before that, Nettie Blassberg, 57, of Greenfield, Mass., had been shot and killed when she tried to overpower her captor. "She reached up behind him and grabbed him around the throat and tried to do karate on him so that he would drop the gun," said 11-year-old Sunjoy Toteau.

"He said 'Don't ever ever try that' and he shot her," the young passenger said.

Devoer said Bozick was shot when he reacted to the woman's death and "made a lunge for the man and tried to push him out of the bus."

A Hong Kong businessman aboard the bus, Jimmy Lo, was seriously wounded several hours later when he tried to escape during negotiations with Robinson.

And an 8-year-old boy suffered cuts and bruises when he was hurled from the moving bus about half an hour before Robinson surrendered.

"I'm happy to be alive. We're all happy to be alive because it was touch and go and none of us knew if we'd ever get off the bus," said Devoer.

"We were ... in the Bronx when I heard a gunshot and this man walked forward with another man pointing a gun at him," Devoer said.

The wounded man was John McGovern of Hartford, Conn., a librarian at the University of Hartford. He was shot in the neck.

McGovern was shoved off the bus at the airport. Interviewed later from a hospital stretcher, McGovern described Robinson as "racially upset."

He said Robinson "was very upset about the racial situation in the United States. He talked about how badly he had been treated in the United States and wanted to leave."

Redistricting bill reportedly dying

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A plan by majority Democrats for the legislature to draw new congressional districts for Ohio while Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes can't stop them has cooled considerably.

Their bill, introduced by Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, and backed by Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, is now awaiting a Senate floor vote.

Ocasek said last week, after it cleared the Senate Elections, Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee 6-3 along party lines, he wants a Senate vote sometime this month.

But the Senate leader refused to speculate about its fate in the House, where Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, has strongly indicated that redistricting is not at the top of his priority list.

Lawmakers were to return from the Fourth of July weekend recess today with the attention of House Democrats focused on two of those other priorities. One is collective bargaining for public workers, and the other is a major bill under which the state would pay 25 per cent of winter heating bills for elderly and handicapped Ohioans, chiefly those on fixed incomes.

Ocasek is finding feelings in his own Senate ranks against reshaping the state's 23 congressional districts to Democratic advantage at this time. Some Democratic senators have said privately that it could be unwise politically, at a time when veto-proof Democrats already are forcing major budget and other decisions on the Republican minority and the Rhodes administration.

Congressional districts would be redrawn anyway, following the 1980 census, they point out. In addition, some Democrats believe they could get into trouble in their own election districts with a bill that had the effect of forcing new congressmen on many constituents who like the ones they have now. Several of Ohio's long time congressmen enjoy wide support in both parties.

One ranking Democrat said last week he had asked around, and is now convinced "the redistricting bill is sick, if not dead."

Sens. Valiquette and Ocasek insist that Democrats should get on with the job, since Republicans have done the same thing in the past (1964 and 1968) when they had the chance.

Farmers face heat this week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Ohio farmers can look forward to plenty of warmth across the state today and more thundershowers in north portions of the state. Some stressing of both plants and animals is likely through midweek or longer.

Field Operations — Thundershowers have brought some additional rain to northern areas of the state since Monday and more scattered wetting is likely today. Moisture consumption rates particularly in central and southern Ohio will be at a heavy amount as a result of the high temperatures. Look for amounts around 0.30 hundredths of an inch per day through Wednesday. The heavy consumption period will be mainly in the afternoon hours. Only brief and scattered field delays are indicated this week, mainly north today through Wednesday.

Crop Response — Most major crops will show signs of heat and moisture stress temporarily in central and southern Ohio through this week during afternoons as a result of the rapid moisture demand being greater than the supply rate. For those fruit crops coming into production in south Ohio, the harvest period is likely to be shortened a little.

Livestock care — Temperature-humidity combination effect will produce alert to danger level for livestock safety index across the state today and Wednesday. Remember to provide abundant water supply, keep livestock activity down to minimal levels and provide access to shade. Shade will lower temperatures by 10 or more degrees for livestock as compared to full sun areas.

Harvesting and Haying — Favorable harvest and haying conditions are likely in central and southern areas of state through Saturday.

Pipeline shut down

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The trans-Alaska oil pipeline was shut down Monday night because of a nitrogen-leaking drain plug buried beneath 20 feet of "gravel as hard as concrete," said an Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. spokesman.

He said it was expected to take 11 to 13 hours to repair the 1½-inch plug. On that schedule, oil would start moving again at mid-morning Tuesday.

The malfunctioning plug allowed nitrogen to leak under Pump Station No. 8, which is at milepost 488 on the 800-mile long line.

The oil flow was stopped 15 miles away, and no oil was leaked. Nitrogen is sent ahead of the oil to prevent the possibility of combustion.

Henry Mowell, Alyeska vice president for operations, said workmen will have to dig out the plug to confirm that it is the problem.

Mowell said it would be fair to say that "it's the first real problem" encountered in moving the oil south to the pipeline port of Valdez. Oil began flowing June 20.

Several charges filed

Local police officer assaulted in dispute

A Washington C.H. police officer was reportedly assaulted early Monday morning following a domestic dispute in the 200 block of W. Elm Street.

Patrolman Larry L. Mongold had responded to a disturbance at 12:25 a.m. on Elm Street. He placed Rebecca A. Lowe, 23, of 120 W. Elm St., under arrest for disorderly conduct when the woman reportedly resisted his attempts.

Mongold reported that the woman had to be handcuffed and forcibly placed in the police cruiser. While Mongold was arresting the woman, her husband became abusive and threatened him, according to the police report.

Robert L. Lowe, 29, of 120 W. Elm St., was subdued with chemical mace to prevent him from interfering with the arrest. Lowe fled the scene after he was sprayed with the mace, police said.

After taking Mrs. Lowe to the police station, she reportedly attempted to kick Mongold in the groin. He blocked the kick and was not injured.

After Mrs. Lowe was incarcerated, Mongold returned to the 200 block of Elm Street and placed the woman's husband under arrest.

She was charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and assault. Her husband was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Washington C.H. police officers are investigating the theft of a 1970 model Plymouth Duster from in front of the John C. Nichols residence at 214 S. North St.

Nichols told police officers that he discovered the car missing Sunday afternoon. It was valued at $700.

City police investigated a citizen's band radio theft and a breaking and entering incident over the weekend.

Walter H. Matson, 30, of 2788 Bull Dog Court, told police that someone stole a citizen's band radio valued at $170 from his car parked at the Eagle's parking lot on Sycamore Street late Friday night.

Norman Wilson, 1017 Paint St., told police that someone stole $20 from a bag left on the kitchen counter at his residence sometime Friday or Saturday.

Turkey undergoes government change

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Former Premier Suleyman Demirel began trying to form a new conservative coalition government today following the defeat of Premier Bulent Ecevit, who won last month's national election, on his first vote of confidence in the National Assembly.

Demirel said he hopes to have a new government "within 10 days." He said he would meet with leaders of all parties with significant representation in the 450-seat assembly in hopes of forming a stable government. But he was expected to end up with a duplicate of the ineffective coalition he headed for the past two years.

Observers predicted an alliance of Demirel's 189-seat Justice party, the 24-seat Moslem fundamentalist National Salvation party and the 16-seat National Action party.

This would give Demirel 229 of the 450 seats in the assembly, a majority of eight. But the three parties were partners in Demirel's last government, and their differences prevented decisive action on such pressure issues as a settlement between the Greek and Turkish Cypriots, relations with the United States, Greece and the European Economic Community, the bad state of the economy and domestic violence that has taken hundreds of lives in the last two years.

Ecevit, whose center-left Republican People's party is the largest in the assembly with 214 seats, formed a one-party minority cabinet.

He submitted his resignation to President Fahri Koruturk Sunday after the conservatives put aside their differences and joined forces to defeat him 229-217. He had been in office 10 days and continues as a caretaker premier until a new government is formed.

Meanwhile, more violence was reported and a new Greek-Turkish incident were reported.

Police said a worker was shot and killed in a fight between rival leftist labor factions attending a meeting in Gaziantep, eastern Turkey. Police in Istanbul said two explosions wrecked the offices of a union supporting Ecevit.

A Greek naval patrol on the island of Mytilene, off the west coast of Turkey, said it seized two "high-speed" boats with five Turks aboard and was investigating them.

Two Fayette County youths were injured in mini-bike accidents over the holiday weekend.

Six-year-old Brad W. Flora of 119 Biddle Boulevard in Bloomingsburg was treated for a scalp laceration and released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital, according to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

The accident occurred at 7:15 p.m. Saturday when young Flora fell from the back of the mini-bike which was being operated by another youth. The mishap occurred at the Flora residence.

Cynthia K. Dennis, 14, 405 Florence St., was burned on the right leg after the mini-bike she was driving overturned on farm property at 7353 U.S. 22-NE Thursday. She was treated and released at Fayette County Memorial Hospital on Monday.

4-H Roundup

Camping is an exciting and interesting way for boys and girls to learn about physical fitness, hygiene and personal appearance, nature, crafts, group games, recreation, and other meaningful things.

Day Camp is an organized experience in group participation on a day-time basis. It is generally conducted in a close-to-home camp site so that children can walk to a days program related to living and enjoying the out-of-doors.

The Day Camp serves approximately 150 children from the Washington C.H. community by offering them a two-week Day Camp at a cost of $1 per camper. It is open to any boy or girl ages 8-13. A lunch and a snack will be served each day. A group of selected teenage counselors will be trained to do this job along with the two camp directors.

Mini 4-H projects consisting of nutrition, sewing, home repair, bicycle safety and others will be offered to each camper along with such things as games, movies, tours, cook-outs, organized recreation and visits by special guests at Day Camp this year.

The first two-week camp will be July 11-14 at Eastside Elementary School and July 18-21 at Washington Senior High School.

The second camp will be held August 1-4 and August 8-11 at the Washington C.H. Middle School.

The third camp is scheduled August 15-18 and August 22-25 at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

All three camps will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 3:15 p.m. each day. Each camp will be limited to the first 60 children registering, on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Any additional information can be obtained by calling the Fayette County Extension Service Office at 335-1150.

Glenn sponsoring statewide CETA seminar in Columbus

Local leaders from throughout Ohio will gather in Columbus Thursday and Friday to attend a major workshop initiated by Senator John Glenn (D-Ohio) to discuss the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) programs in Ohio and elsewhere.

Among the participants, in addition to the state's senior senator, will be several representatives of the U.S. Department of Labor, including Deputy Assistant Secretary Robert McConnon, top state officials, and representatives of several of Ohio's largest metropolitan CETA programs.

The CETA workshop begins at 9:30 a.m. Thursday with welcoming remarks by Glenn and Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes. Seminars are scheduled that morning and afternoon and resume Friday until shortly past noon. McConnon is scheduled to address a luncheon meeting of the workshop on Thursday.

Subjects of the seminars include veteran employment, youth unemployment and training, rural workers, ex-offender programs, job programs for the handicapped, and special programs for women.

The CETA workshop will be at the Sheraton-Columbus Hotel.

This week's program is the second in a series of seminars announced by Glenn to help Ohio local leaders obtain a greater share of federal dollars by becoming aware of programs and how they can obtain grants by cutting red tape. The first seminar was for administrators of community colleges throughout Ohio.

In commenting on this week's CETA workshop, Glenn noted that although recent unemployment figures have shown some improvement in the jobs picture, there are still 284,000 men and women out of work in Ohio.

"CETA is designed to provide worthy work and training for hard-core unemployed citizens. In some places it has fulfilled its function, in some communities it hasn't.

"I also want the federal officials to be exposed to the concerns of local leaders who have had to deal with the CETA program from its inception," Glenn said.

It's going to be hot and humid for the next few days in Ohio, with a chance of thundershowers and thunderstorms this afternoon and evening.

Temperatures will be in the upper 80s and low 90s, the National Weather Service said.

The thundershowers and thunderstorms will be most numerous in the northeast, but will also occur in most other sections.

Extended outlook for Ohio, Thursday through Saturday: fair Thursday and Friday. A chance of showers Saturday. Warm and humid through the period with the highs in the lower 90s Thursday and Friday and in the 80s Saturday.

No sexual revolution, prof says

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — There has been more open discussion of sex in the past 20 years, but there was no "Sexual Revolution," says an Ohio University researcher in interpersonal communications.

And all the talk has not necessarily meant better communication about sex, Janet Wilson maintains.

Irreversible or drastic change is needed to make a revolution, she says, and she has found little or no change in attitudes or behavior.

Mrs. Wilson adds that a double standard still exists for men and women. No "sexual revolution" can happen until it is eliminated and men and women, parents and children, talk more honestly about sex, she maintains.

One reason for the greater openness about sex is advertising which "caters to our sexual frustrations and anxieties," Mrs. Wilson said recently.

Holiday fun for everyone at fairground

Fireworks, horseshoe pitching, a teen dance, a ping pong tournament, and a dunking machine were just a few of the activities held Monday on the Fayette County Fairgrounds as Washington C.H. area residents commemorated America's 201st birthday.

The photographs above taken by Record-Herald staff photographer Tim Carson depict just a few of the many activities sponsored for the holiday celebration by the Washington C.H. Jaycee chapter.

In the upper left, a youngster prepares to throw a baseball at the Jaycee dunking machine, always a popular attraction. The photo at the upper right hand corner of the page shows teenagers dancing in the Mahan Building to the music of "Sass," a Cincinnati rock music band. The photo at the lower left shows Ralph Garrison competing in the horseshoe pitching contest, while an unidentified youth prepares to return a ping pong shot.

The festivities started at 11 a.m. Monday with an 18-unit parade through Washington C.H.'s central business district to the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Anna Marie Stott and Billie Costigan

For possible federal funding

Planners eye mental health needs

The Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board recently hired planners under a federal grant to evaluate regional mental health needs and submit an application to the National Institute of Mental Health next spring.

If that grant is approved, the board stands to receive federal money which would enable them to offer many additional mental health services in Fayette, Highland, Pickaway, Pike and Ross counties.

Anna Marie Stott, project director, and Billie Costigan, assistant planner, will spend the next 10 months studying the five-county area mental health needs.

"We will be looking at factors that contribute to stress or emotional problems, such as poverty and unemployment," Ms. Stott said. "Another important task will be consulting with schools, children's services agencies, law enforcement agencies, court systems, and social service agencies. We will also be holding public meetings in each county to obtain resident's opinions on mental health needs in their own communities. We welcome community interest and participation in this process."

If the federal grant is approved, some additional services which could become available include emergency services, full range aftercare programs for persons discharged from mental institutions, consultation and education programs, children's programs, and rape counseling.

Ms. Stott has a bachelor's degree in sociology and a master's degree in social work. Her former job experiences include coordinator of consultation and education for the Columbus Area Mental Health Center and planning coordinator for the Franklin County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board.

Ms. Costigan has a bachelor's degree in public health and a master's degree in public health education and educational guidance and counseling. Previous job experiences include program director for the Northern Kentucky Mental Health Association, associate director of the Hamilton County Community Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board, assistant professor of health, Department of School and Public Health, Eastern Kentucky University, and planner for Franklin County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board.

he thinks living in the camper, which has its own refrigerator, stove, sink, stereo radio, citizens' band radio and air conditioner, is safer, nicer and cheaper. The $12,600 motorhome has its own water supply for the shower and commode.

With Statehouse guards patrolling the parking lot, the 48-year-old solon's home has tight security.

Thompson says he saves about $100 a month by not renting. His annual salary as a legislator is $17,500.

And he doesn't have to wake to the jarring buzz of an alarm clock either. Reps. Ike Thompson, D-13, and Tom Fries, D-35, both of Dayton, come by each morning and rock the van to get their comrade from Cleveland out of bed.

Solon finds van living great

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. John D. Thompson Jr., D-15 Cleveland, has found a way to beat the high cost, time and energy waste of commuting to the Statehouse in downtown Columbus.

He has even found a way to beat the high cost of living downtown. Instead of renting a hotel room or an apartment near the Statehouse, as is customary with state legislators, Thompson is living in a van camper in the Capitol parking lot.

"We have no housing or food allowance," Thompson said. "In order to conserve, I thought of buying the van."

Thompson has tried renting during his seven previous years in office, but

Odd shoe sizes don't faze woman

SANTA MONICA, Calif., (AP) — If an award were given for Matchmaker of the Year, Ruth Rubin Feldman would be a shoe-in. But Mrs. Feldman deals in soles rather than hearts.

Thirty-seven years ago, Mrs. Feldman decided to help people like herself who have feet of different sizes. She formed the National Odd Shoe Exchange — NOSE — to acquaint people who otherwise would have to buy two pairs of the same shoe style. "That is the way it was for me when I was growing up in St. Louis," said Mrs. Feldman. "Because I had polio, my left foot was smaller than my right by a size and a half."

The local polio society helped Mrs. Feldman organize NOSE.

For a $5 charge to pay for the paperwork, a subscriber's name and shoe sizes go into Mrs. Feldman's files and the person is sent a list of subscribers throughout the world.

Eddie Fisher tries comeback

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Eddie Fisher, the "Golden Throat" of the 1950s, has launched what he hopes will be a successful comeback with a one-night stand at Grossinger's, a resort hotel in the Catskill Mountains.

Fisher, now in his late 40s, began his career at the same hotel when he was 17.

He said his appearance Sunday night "is like a rebirth for me, a new beginning."

During the almost 30 years of his spotty show business career, Fisher has had four wives, including Debbie Reynolds and later, Elizabeth Taylor, run up heavy debts and battled with amphetamines.

"This will be my last shot," he said. He plans a series of appearances across the country leading to a "what new act in Vegas" in October.

The wood-boring beetle has been known to live as long as 37 years.

Vatican jumps into parochial fight

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican urged Roman Catholic bishops today to seek government funds to support their parochial school systems. It said Catholic schools are a necessary counterbalance to modern secularism and a guarantee of religious freedom.

The Sacred Congregation for Catholic Education issued a 10,000-word document which also criticized Catholic school systems that cater mostly to the rich; urged priests, brothers and nuns not to abandon teaching, and insisted that the church's schools must meet high professional standards.

The document noted that some governments already provide financial support to Catholic schools and "guarantee both the preservation of the special status of the Catholic school and its ability to perform its function adequately."

"Catholic schools are thereby more or less closely associated with the national system," the document continued, "and are assured or an economic and juridical status similar to state schools. ... These solutions are an encouragement to those responsible for Catholic schools in countries where the Catholic community must still shoulder a very heavy burden of cost to maintain an often highly important network of Catholic schools."

The document said the church must "mobilize her educational resources in the face of the materialism, pragmatism and technocracy of contemporary society." It said Catholic schools help "promote that freedom of teaching which champions and guarantees freedom of conscience and the parental right to choose the school best suited to a parent's educational purposes."

The document set forth answers to a number of criticisms of Catholic schools:

—Those who argue they are out of step with the lay character of the modern secular state ignore the need for institutional witness;

—Religious schools are not intended as instruments of proselytism but take into account the religious dimension of every man;

—Catholic schools have not outlived their usefulness but may be more important today because of the tendency of the modern state to establish monolithic systems of education;

—If Catholic schools seem to serve only the wealthy in some countries, that is because of the state's lack of appreciation of their benefit to society and its failure to support them financially.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Andrew Rooney, whose film essays on Washington bureaucracy and dining out have added a nice light touch to CBS News wares the last two years, has a new special arriving tonight.

It's called "Mr. Rooney Goes to Work," an inquiry into how hard Americans do or do not work these days.

The project is ambitious, considering the lack of, say, a U.S. Department of Work to toot alarms when sloth spreads, or fire skyrockets that indicate all workers just became busier than a beaver.

Rooney candidly admits at the start of his show the thing originally began with the idea that nobody's working very hard, "and we were thinking of calling it 'Goofing Off in America.'"

To see if this is so, he says, he and a film crew traveled the country and visited 100 factories and other places of business.

He also talked to a wide range of folks, nearly 40 of whom appear on-camera tonight — workers, union and business chiefs, two handymen, even a young Florida beachcomber with a gold ring in his ear.

Alas, this show, which accents the positive, virtually eliminates the negative and doesn't mess with Mr. In-Between, lacks the zip of Rooney's sharp, often funny earlier dissections of bureaucracy and outside-the-home eats.

Early on, Rooney's touch for good-humored irony shows up when he recalls that a board chairman, Stanford Noll, had "said that the trouble with the American worker is that he's making so much money, he takes off on vacation whenever he feels like it."

"Well, that was sort of a catchy remark, so we called Sanford Noll's office in Cleveland to see if we could come there and talk to him," Rooney adds.

"His secretary told us he'd taken off for Fort Lauderdale and wouldn't be back for six weeks."

So Rooney & Co. decamp to Fort Lauderdale, and a pretty interesting interview with Mr. Noll ensues.

Woe, sag sets in with repetitive claims from various workers, a stray street-painter, even a man who's put shoes together for 42 years, that they all like their jobs and like to work.

It aids Rooney's conclusion that Americans do work hard, do enjoy their labors, but there's gotta be another way.

"Work" rallies in a talk with handyman George LaPelle and in an interesting trip to a Cleveland plant where workers participate heavily in both profits and management decisions.

But a final chat with an industry consultant on profit-sharing plans as they relate to socialism and capitalism suggests what infinity's like — mighty long and no coffee breaks.

Pocoroba makes Seaver a loser

ATLANTA (AP) — Biff Pocoroba blasted a Tom Seaver fast ball to set off the Fourth of July fireworks in Atlanta Stadium a bit prematurely Monday night.

The Atlanta catcher picked out a fast ball with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning. He drove it over the head of center fielder Cesar Geronimo for a base-clearing double to ignite the Braves to a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in a nationally televised contest.

The hit, to the delight of the crowd of 50,595, pinned the loss on Seaver, 8-5, his second against one victory as a Red.

The crowd was beefed up because of the giant fireworks display the Braves put on after the contest.

"It isn't often you get the chance to win a game against someone as great as he is (Seaver)," Pocoroba said. "When you get the chance you've got to make the best of it. All I did was what I'm supposed to do."

Both agreed it was a fast ball the young catcher hit but disagreed on whether Seaver was tiring.

"He was puffing," said Pocoroba. "It was getting to him, I could tell. I figured he would have to come in with a fast one and he did."

"Pocoroba hit a fast ball," said Seaver. "But I wasn't tired. I didn't think it was that hot. I felt great."

Seaver allowed eight hits, struck out six and walked two before being hanging onto a 3-2 lead before Pocoroba struck.

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson defended his center fielder, Geronimo. "I don't think he was playing too close."

Johnny Bench homered earlier off winner Phil Niekro, 8-9, and Dan Driessen cracked a solo homer in the ninth off reliever Rick Camp.

Willie Montanez drove in the first Atlanta run with a bases-empty homer and Jeff Burroughs knocked in the other with a single after Montanez had doubled.

Niekro has now won eight of his last 10 decisions after dropping his first seven.

The knuckleballer allowed seven hits, walked nine and struck out six in eight innings.

"I was just wild," he said. "I couldn't get it over. I was so wild that they couldn't even swing at me. The thing about the knuckleball is that when it's bad, it's really bad. And when it's good, it's really good. I struggled the whole game."

Little League action

The Mustangs put an end to the thrilling Little League major season with a 20-17 win over the La-Z-Boys to gain first place and the championship.

This game was a continuation of an earlier suspended game and resumed in the eighth inning with the score tied, 16-16. The Mustangs scored four runs in the top of the inning, three on a homer by Matt Craig.

But, the La-Z-Boys came right back to score one run and load the bases with no out. Then, the Mustangs pulled off a wild triple play to end the game and the season.

In other action, K of C edged the Elks, 18-17, and the Levi Boys beat Downton Drug, 13-14.

Golf news

The Washington Country Club saw plenty of action over the weekend with several events scheduled.

A three-way tie had to be broken by matching cards at Sunday's two man, best ball event. The team of Paul Maughmer and John Wylie finished first with Richard Lewis and Glen Helmick, Sr. second and Dan Huffman and Gary Knisley third.

Yesterday, the five man, best ball event was won by the team of Dr. Robert Hagerty, S.E. Vaughn, Ben Wright, Walter Rettig and Dr. Robert Anderson.

In the Scotch twosome event, winners were chosen in three classes. Class A: Low score, Hazel Speakman and Jim Polk; Low net score, Dr. Robert Heiny; Low putts, Robert Sanderson.

Class B: Low score, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Noble; Low net, Wilson Moon; Low putts, Gerald Begin and Al Heer. Class C: Low score, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Roszmann; Low net, Mr. and Mrs. William Stoughton; Low putts, Ralph Cook.

The men's club championship starts next Sunday at WCC.

Dave Eichelberger
Milwaukee winner

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It was a $26,000 paycheck for a long weekend of work, and Dave Eichelberger had no doubts what to do with his winnings from the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

"We're going to buy a house in Fort Worth," he said after pocketing the tournament's top prize. "We need the room. If I didn't win here, we'd just have to scrape some more."

Dodgers 4, Giants 0

Don Sutton pitched a threehitter and Ron Cey collected three singles and two RBI to pace Los Angeles. Sutton leads all active National League pitchers with 45 shutouts, two less than major league leader Gaylord Perry.

Braves 5, Reds 4
Biff Pocoroba's three-run double with two out in the eighth inning gave the Braves their victory over Tom Seaver, 8-5, and the Reds.

Phil Niekro, 8-9, picked up his eighth win in his last 10 decisions after an 0-7 start.

Astros 12, Padres 7
Jose Cruz drove in four runs with a single and two homers to spark Houston over San Diego. Cruz started his big night with an RBI single in the third as the Astros sent 11 men to the plate to score seven runs off Padre starter Tom Griffin and reliever Dave Wehrmeister.

Bjorn ready for Connors again

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Bjorn Borg, the blond tennis ace from Sweden, has set his sights on becoming the fourth man to win more than two men's singles titles at historic Wimbledon.

But first he wants another crack at Jimmy Connors at the U.S. Open in September.

WIMBLEDON STAR IS BJORN — Bjorn Borg successfully defended his Wimbledon men's single crown last weekend against Jimmy Connors. Connors took Borg to five sets after dropping two of the first, but faltered in his bid to recapture the crown he held in 1974. Borg won his second consecutive Wimbledon.

Borg beat Connors, the Belleville, Ill., whiz who had been considered the No. 1 ranking player in the world, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4 Saturday to win his second straight Wimbledon crown.

"I want to win Wimbledon again," said the broad-shouldered 21-year-old Scandinavian with the 80-pound tension in his racket strings.

If he does win again next year, he would be only the second man to capture three consecutive Wimbledon singles titles in the last 50 years. Fred Perry of England did it in the 1930s.

Australian John Newcombe also has three Wimbledon singles titles, but only two in succession.

Rod Laver of Australia is the only man to win four singles championships at Wimbledon in the past half-century.

"I am not scared any more," Borg said after beating Connors here. "I am more mentally tough. Now I know I can come back. I have confidence I can win."

Borg lost to Connors in the finals of the U.S. Open at Forest Hills last fall. If he wins there this year, the Swede will be the third man in the past decade to the Wimbledon and Forest Hills titles the same year. Laver won both in 1969 and Connors in 1974.

The only American to win at the centenary Wimbledon tourney was JoAnne Russell of Miami Beach, Fla., who captured a share of the women's doubles crown with Australian Helen Gourlay Cawley.

Defending women's singles champion Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., bowed in the semis to Virginia Wade of England, who then beat Betty Stove of The Netherlands on Friday for the women's title.

Old-timer remembers 1927

Fifty years of golf's British Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Henry Cotton can remember his first British Open 50 years ago as if it were yesterday, and the recollections, he says, send shivers up his spine.

"It was at St. Andrews in 1927," recalled England's 70-year-old fairway patriarch, preparing to tee off in the 106th championship Wednesday. "The experience was a harrowing one."

"Bob Jones was heavily favored and an idol of the Scots. You know how it is at St. Andrews — double greens and parallel fairways. Well, on the final day when two 18-hole rounds were played, it was impossible for the other players on the course.

"The fans went wild, swarming over the adjacent fairways where other players were trying to make their shots and sitting down on the other half of the greens."

Cotton, whose career has spanned the generations from the immortal Harry Vardon to Jack Nicklaus, is amused at the affluence and high public esteem held by the modern tournament professional.

"For many of those early years, the professional was looked upon as little more than a lackey and held in disdain by the club members," he recalled.

This class distinction continued through the career of the late Bob Jones, an amateur, and into the 1930s before being broken through by the resistance of Cotton and the flamboyant Walter Hagen.

"I'll never forget 1930 when Jones came to Hoylake in pursuit of his Grand Slam," Cotton said. "He was accompanied by Leo Diegel, a professional. After a practice round, Jones was swept into the upstairs trophy room by exuberant admirers."

"He looked around and said, 'Where's Leo?' 'Sorry, Mr. Jones,' he was told. 'Professionals are not allowed in here.' So Jones took his drink plus one for Diegel and the two sat on the front steps to finish them."

Forbidden entrance to the club house, Hagen ordered a limousine to the front door with chauffeur and footman and dressed in the car.

"Others of us began dressing in our cars," Cotton said. "But club members resented our having cars and we had to hide them behind bushes. Americans, however, were allowed to park near the club house. In 1934, when I won for the first time at St. George's, I finally was permitted to park next to Gene Sarazen's car."

Cotton won again in 1937 and 1948 — three Opens — and shortly afterward announced one of his periodic retirements.

"I planned a comeback for 1953 at Carnoustie," he said. "I worked hard for three months. Then one day the fairway started weaving before me. I was hospitalized with a heart attack. It was Ben Hogan's Open, the only one I haven't seen in 50 years."

The great English star staged another comeback but last December underwent two operations, had pneumonia, suffered blood clots in his lungs and legs and barely survived.

He has played only eight rounds since but could not resist the invitation to Turnberry. "This is the silver jubilee for the queen," he said. "The golden jubilee for me."

Nicklaus favored in Britain

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, superstar of the British open golf championships for 15 years, is heavily favored to win it again over one of Scotland's wildest and windiest courses.

The bookies rated him an 11-2 shot for the tournament starting Wednesday over Turnberry's 6,875-yard Ailsa course beside the Firth of Clyde.

Since 1962, Nicklaus has won the British Open twice, been runner-up five times and placed third three times.

The 117-year-old tournament, which is alternated among eight of Britain's ancient courses, is being played at Turnberry for the first time. If the wind blows, it could turn into a nightmare.

"I played here once in a tournament in 1973," said Johnny Miller, the defending champion. "It was horrendous weather, even by Scottish standards."

The ninth tee, out on a windswept promontory beside a lighthouse, is the most notorious on any British links. The players have to drive from a tiny patch of ground, with waves breaking over the rocks right beneath them.

"On a course like this you have to use imagination," Miller said. "By comparison, on American courses it's like shooting darts."

"At Turnberry the game is more like it was intended to be when the British invented it."

Petty wins Firecracker 400

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Old blue was flying, said Darrell Waltrip. "I was running after him, but there was no way anybody was gonna catch him."

Old blue is Richard Petty, winner for the seventh time in major stock car races at Daytona International Speedway when he beat Waltrip by 17.7 seconds in the rain-interrupted Firecracker 400-mile Monday.

"We weren't the fastest, but we were the quickest," Petty said. "I mean the quickest getting back to the finish line. Some of those cars that go fast down the straights don't do as well in the corners."

The money incentive is still there for the six-time national champion on the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) grand national circuit.

It wasn't only the $23,075 Petty won in the race, but the fact that it pulled him within 17 points of defending national champion Cale Yarborough in this year's race. Yarborough had mechanical trouble and had to settle for 24th place.

Petty was leading after 205 miles, when the race was halted for hours by rain. Twenty three laps under caution to dry the track slowed the winner's speed to 142.716 miles an hour.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 1♦ 3♠ 4♠
Pass 5♦ Pass 7♦
Opening lead — six of diamonds.

It's easy to make seven diamonds if you see all four hands. All you have to do is avoid taking a club finesse through East and losing to the doubleton queen.
But if you're declarer and don't see the East-West cards, the task is much more difficult. Let's see whether there's any way for declarer to discover — without using mirrors — that West has the doubleton queen of clubs.
West leads a trump and South notes that the only possible loser is a club. There are two obvious ways of avoiding the club loser: declarer can hope to find the missing hearts divided 3-3 and discard a club on dummy's fourth heart, or he can hope to find East with the queen of clubs, in which case finessing the jack will succeed.

There is no need to explore either possibility at once, so South wins the trump lead, ruffs a spade high in dummy, returns to his hand with a trump, ruffs another spade high, then leads all his trumps, producing this position:

North		South
♠ A 8 7 4	♥ J 10 9 2	♠ K 5	♥ K Q 6
♦ A 8	♣ 10 9	♦ K J 2	♣ K J 2

Declarer cashes the K-Q-A of hearts. When West shows out, South learns that East has the jack of hearts among his last three cards.

Declarer then leads the A-8 of clubs, East following suit. It would now be foolish to finesse the jack, because East's one remaining card is known to be the jack of hearts and therefore cannot be the queen of clubs. So South goes up with the king of clubs, catches the queen and makes the contract.

Pool Cover Can Save On Water and Heating

By MICHAEL RUBIN Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — So you're the owner of one of the nation's estimated one million-plus swimming pools. Friends and neighbors who once hinted at an invitation for an afternoon dip now look askance at these days of drought and energy shortages.

What are you going to do — pave it over? Not likely, especially since there are some far cheaper and more enticing alternatives.

The pool industry folk at the California Swimming Pool Energy, Codes and Legislative Council have come up with a series of suggestions to cut water use and heating costs without going to huge expense.

Tops on every list of recommendations is a pool cover. Not necessarily the heavy canvas type used in winter conditions when the pool is closed, but lightweight plastic bubbles or foam blankets that can let warmth in, keep dirt out and reduce evaporation which experts say can run 600 gallons a week, depending on such factors as pool size, location, air and water temperatures.

The combination of a cover, which costs between $50 and $500 and some common sense, like keeping down the kids' splashing, can easily cut that evaporation in half, experts say.

Covers can also help pools retain warmth overnight. Heating costs can be trimmed 50 per cent or more in some cases, manufacturers say, based on the type of blanket and when it's on.

Next in importance is turning the thermostat down. The American Red Cross considers 78 degrees the healthiest swimming temperature but a goodly number of pools are tuned to 82 degrees. Industry experts say those extra four degrees can use as much as 40 per cent more of that expensive natural gas.

To further reduce heating costs, shorten the period of months the pool is heated, eliminating the cool early spring and chilly autumn periods when large gulps of gas are needed to keep water comfortable.

Thermostats on pools used only on weekends should be turned down eight or 10 degrees and then hiked back up Friday. You can also save by turning off the pilot light when the heater isn't in use.

What gives with this hobby of photography? Some people seem to think you're not a photo-hobbyist unless you pour lots of money into equipment. Not so. You can't buy your way into the ranks. The thing that seems to make photography so appealing is the fact that it combines knowledge of the sciences, art, and the acquiring of skill in handling all the variables that present themselves in every picture-taking situation. You can work at photography all your life and you'll still be learning from each new photo experience. Every so often someone comes in the shop and says he wants a camera that will do such and such a job. We try to explain to the guy that it isn't the camera that makes this type of pictures; it's the skill of the lensman. Any good camera will handle the job if the man at the controls knows how to properly use his photographic tools. If you believe what you see on TV you get the idea that some new super camera or a new hot lens will automatically make you a master photographer. Sorry, kiddies, it just ain't that simple. Sorry about that. People spend a lifetime learning photography, and there's still much they'll never know about this fascinating field. But the thing is it's fun all the way. Think about it.

Electrical short blamed

Fire damages local real estate office

Fire damaged the E.J. Platt Real Estate office, 147 S. Fayette St., Monday morning, according to the Washington C.H. Fire Department.

An electrical short in a night light at the front of the office ignited the office into flames about 6:57 a.m., the fire department report stated. The building was not occupied when the fire broke out. Damage is still undetermined.

Some $300 in wheat was lost in a fire Sunday afternoon in Union Township.

The report stated a discarded cigarette set aflame a pile of grass and weed clippings near 1801 Bloomingburg-New Holland Road and spread to a wheat field belonging to Alice Bush and Charles Frayne.

In two automobile fires, firemen stated, an electrical short in the motor compartment of a 1969 model Ford

Saturday, 11:50 p.m. on Creek Road near Rowe Ging Road, David E. Ryan, 30, of 619 Gibbs Ave., lost control of his vehicle, drove left of center over an embankment and struck a tree. He was cited for reckless operation.

Monday, 3 p.m. on Rowe Ging Road near Armbrust Road. While avoiding a car driven by Patricia L. Hillery, 49, of 627 N. North St., James D. Jenkins, 20, of 409 Florence St., drove off right side of road, across the road off the left side and struck a tree.

8 p.m. on Ohio 207 in the community of Pancoastburg. While stopped at the gas pumps at Webb's Market, a car belonging to Daryl L. Sanger, 23, Piqua, was sideswiped by a black van which left the scene.

LTD set the wiring on fire completely destroying the engine. The owner Tom Walker, 1352 Dennis Road, had stopped his car at 2539 US 62-NE about 9:41 p.m. Sunday. He was not injured.

Nollie H. Hill, of Bellbrook, had parked her car in front of 101 E. Court St., about 8:09 p.m. Monday when the heat from the 1972 model Dodge's exhaust system ignited a fuel leak in the engine compartment. Damage was estimated at $300 by fire officials.

Washington C.H. firemen also report they aided the Fayette County Life Squad about 11:20 a.m. Saturday when Howard Keefe, 302 McElwain St., was reported as having chest pains. He was transported to the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room where he was treated and released.

Liberties groups losers in court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil liberties groups and feminists lost more than they gained, law enforcement authorities gained more than they lost and Richard M. Nixon lost during the Supreme Court's just-completed term.

The nation's highest court reached 176 decisions during a nine-month period in which it studied almost 5,000 cases.

Generally, the justices continued the conservative trend which began seven years ago under Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

Led by Burger and Justice William H. Rehnquist, the court again came down heavy on the side of law enforcement officials in cases involving individual rights claimed by criminal suspects and defendants.

The court's majority also frustrated the efforts of women's rights groups by deciding that states have no legal duty to pay for medically unnecessary abortions and that health insurance plans do not have to include disability payments for pregnancies.

In one of the court's most publicized decisions, the justices, with only Burger and Rehnquist dissenting, ruled that Nixon cannot control the 880 White House tapes and 42 million pages of documents he left behind when resigning from the presidency.

Byron R. White was the justice joining most often with Burger and Rehnquist in a dozen criminal cases in which the court retreated from more liberal holdings of the court under the late Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Another so-called swing vote, Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., generally could be counted on to join the conservatives in showing deference to the powers of state legislatures and the two other branches of the federal government.

Justices Potter Stewart and John Paul Stevens most often joined White and Powell as swing votes. But Stevens, serving in his first full term since being appointed to the court by former President Gerald R. Ford,

11 persons die on Indiana roads

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Eleven persons died in traffic mishaps in Indiana during the 78-hour Fourth of July holiday weekend.

The latest accident reported by state police killed Robert Ransom II, 22, Indianapolis, in two-vehicle collision Monday on Interstate 65 south of Indianapolis.

established himself as one of the court's most prolific writers and sharpest thinkers.

Stevens often joined the court's two consistently liberal justices, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall, in voting to strengthen the rights afforded criminal suspects.

FISH-N-CHIPS

Folks who know their fish can tell you what a great catch our fish is! It's famous because it's unfishy. Crisp and golden on the outside, light and moist on the inside. It's just plain good eating! Pick up some fish-n-chips where you buy your chicken. It's one of the tastiest surprises we've ever offered.
